

TWMA complete 2007 with international expansion and appointments

Aberdeen-based integrated environmental services specialist, TWMA, has opened three new international offices and made three key senior international appointments to end 2007. The year has been a remarkable one for the company with four important industry awards being won, a major acquisition completed in Norway and annual growth maintained at more than 50%.

With established offices already operating within the UK, Egypt, Nigeria and Norway, the new offices in Kuala Lumpur, Houston and Dubai will give TWMA the regional support to satisfy increasing global demand from the oil and gas industry for its range of environmental services, including the innovative TCC-RotoMill.

New additions to the management team include Malcolm McCullough in Asia, Alistair Riddoch in Egypt & North Africa and Reith Still in the Africa region. Each play a strategic role in securing and maintaining a number of new contracts for the firm across all international locations.

Ronnie Garrick, managing director, TWMA, said: "It is an exciting time for everyone involved with TWMA, together we have reached each of the targets we set ourselves at the beginning of the year after the investment from Lime Rock Partners.

"Our international expansion, coupled with continuous investment in our market leading technologies has resulted in a local and international recruitment drive to secure key personnel. With each of these elements in place TWMA is in a position to meet the energy industry's increasing need for innovative, cost effective waste management solutions which are environmentally sound."

TWMA is committed to delivering environmental solutions to the oil and gas drilling industry worldwide. Reliability, professionalism and effective project management solutions that focus on customer needs are at the core of TWMA's engineering and drilling waste management solutions.

Issued on behalf of TWMA by ThinkPR. For further information contact Annabel Sall on 01224 562825 or 07775 868580 or email Annabel@thinkpr.co.uk